REMARKS

The examiner rejected pending Claim 3 under 35 US.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Teter in view of Magazzu. As explained below, applicant respectfully submits that these references do not apply to the present invention.

The present invention is directed to a portable playing field for playing a plastic ball and bat game, i.e. Wiffle™ ball. In such a plastic bat and ball game, there are no bases and the players do not run. Rather, the ball is hit and wherever the ball falls, it is either a single, double, home run, etc. based upon where the hit markers are placed.

Teter on the other hand applies to a device for the layout of a conventional baseball diamond where precise measurements of the baselines is a necessity. Thus, it is respectfully submitted that one of ordinary skill in the art would not look to Teter to solve a problem with the art of plastic bat and ball games. Rather, it is only through hindsight that one would combine Teter with Magazzu to order applicant's claim obvious.
